THE Blue Book with reference to the audience question, which has just been brought out, is a tardy publication, and does not at the present time possess much interest for readers in China, who have been long couversant with the details which it contains. The most important point in connection with it is in reality the simple fact that it has been published, as it would not be desirable that the tionately by the Fortuguese residents in these public should remain in ignorance of the true state of affairs. There cannot be the slightest doubt that, like most things in China, the audience was to some extent a make-believe. The Chinese never intended to grant the concession in its integrity, and when they found it was pressed, set about their usual expedients, and endeavoured to satisfy the Ministers with the outward form and semblance of what they demanded, in not succeed very, well, and left it but too plain that they were really but making a show of the audience, keeping the promise to our ears, and denying it to our hearts. It would be contrary to the instincts of the Chinese to act straightforwardly in such a case. Our whole intercourse with them would preclude the most sanguing from hoping that they would do so; and that there should have been some shufflings the affair was probably fully and did not cause any great surprise. At the same time it would be an error to imagine that the granting of the audience, even such as it was, was without its use. Clumsily, and to some extent insultingly, as the Chinese have maringed of the canopy and a veiled the portrait of the affair, they have after all conceded the been admitted fully, and the thin end of the wedge has been so insorted that it may be driven home with telling effect, when the proper time arrives for doing so: The audience, however, in one sense was no audience at all. Mr. Wane succinctly describes it in his desputch in the following terms: - "As soon as the address was delivered we laid our letters | solo : Diche Piangee, Duo ; Sol di Pianti, solo ; of credence upon the table. The Emperor and Dies irm, quartetto; all by Mozart. made a slight bow of acknowledgement, and the Prince of Kung falling upon both knees at the foot of the throne, His Majesty appeared to speak to him-I say appeared, bebeen told, however, that the Emperor would speak in Manchu, and that the Prince would interpret. Accordingly, as soon as His Highness rose, he descended the steps, and informed us that His Majesty declared that the letters of credence had been received. Then returning to his place, he again fell upon his which a relegram was received on Monday, and knees, and the Emperor having again spoken to him in a love tone, he again descended the steps, and coming up to us informed us that | Saturday, the 2nd inst. the N. august person. Something, however, has at least been accomplished in the matter, and we must live in hopes that it will lead to more antisfactory results. The settlement of the great audience question has in itself been disappointing, but if the fact that the privilege has at least been granted be adroitly availed of, it may be of use at some future day, when the EMPEROR of CHINA may himself find it advantageous to be upon more intiniate terms with the Representatives of Foreign Powers.

The safety of all foreign nations is concerned when a serious outrage is committed against any one, and if we allow the Chinese to take their revenge upon the French by mob risings, pillage, and incendiarism, the time will assuredly come when the same weapons will be turned against ourselves. The Chinese have no such great love towards England, America, Germany, or any other foreign nation that we can rely upon their friendship and encourage

PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Oninese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong, INOR comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to goin to express the numerous obfects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature, Both the Court and Punti pronunctations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best-principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness no previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have beretofore characterized Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work. the following facts are submitted for consideration. Obalmers' Vocabularly contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English. words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters.
